The Drip Campaign Framework

This playbook provides a comprehensive, tactical guide to every drip campaign a real estate investor, wholesaler, or flipper needs to automate their follow-up and close more deals.

The Core Philosophy: No Lead Left Behind

The fundamental principle is that no lead should ever go cold due to a lack of follow-up. A successful operation has a drip campaign for every conceivable scenario, ensuring that every lead is consistently and appropriately followed up with.

Two Types of Campaigns in This Playbook

This playbook covers two distinct but complementary campaign types:

1. Lead Follow-Up Drip Campaigns: Automated sequences for leads already in your pipeline (offer made, web forms, etc.)
2. Prospecting & Not Interested Rehash Drip Campaigns: Systematic re-engagement of cold prospects and previously uninterested sellers based on data type and distress level

Part 4: Prospecting Data & Not Interested Campaigns

When cold-calling or texting skip-traced phone numbers, you can mark one number as Primary or mark a number as Correct and place them on a "Not Interested" campaign for systematic follow-up based on the data type and distress level.

Why Follow Up with "Not Interested" Owners?

"Not Interested" leads are not dead ends—they're delayed opportunities. An owner who wasn't interested a few months ago may now face a hardship (divorce, inheritance, foreclosure) and be ready to sell. You've already invested in finding their correct contact information, so a follow-up is just a quick call or text to check in.

Not Interested Campaign Strategy by Data Type

The follow-up frequency depends on the urgency and source of the data:

Data Type	Source	Follow-Up Frequency	Rationale
Courthouse/First-to-Market Data	Probate, Foreclosure, Tax Delinquent (pulled directly from county)	Every 30-45 days	Time-sensitive distressed sellers. You need to re-engage before they sell to someone else. Audit your records to find the average time from "Not Interested" to "Sold" and adjust accordingly.
Bulk/AI Data	General bulk data, AI-scored lists, non-urgent prospect lists	Every 90 days	Broader prospect pool with less urgency. Quarterly touchpoints maintain top-of-mind presence without over-contacting.
Standard Quarterly Rehash	Any "Not Interested" status older than 90 days	Every 90 days (Quarterly)	Default cadence for all Not Interested records. Situations change over time—divorce, job loss, inheritance, etc.

Customizing Your Follow-Up Timing

To optimize your Not Interested campaigns, audit your historical data:

1. Pull records with "Not Interested" status
2. Check when those properties eventually sold
3. Calculate the average timeframe from your last outreach to the sale date
4. Customize your follow-up to occur within that timeframe

Example: If the average time from "Not Interested" to "Sold" is 60 days in your market, start your Not Interested campaign every 30-45 days instead of quarterly. This ensures you reengage before they sell to a competitor.

Not Interested Campaign Build

Disposition & Update

Update property status based on call outcome:

Outcome	Action
Still Not Interested	Leave as "Not Interested" and move to next record. They'll be picked up in the next quarterly cycle.
Now Interested	Mark as New Lead and escalate to Lead Manager immediately.
Property Already Sold	Update property status to Sold .
Previously Correct Number Now Dead	Update phone status to Dead . Try any other correct numbers for the record.
DNC Request	Update to Do Not Call . Respect request immediately.

Not Interested Rehash Campaign Cadence

Courthouse/First-to-Market Data (30-45 Day Cycle)

Delay	Action	Details
Day 1	Call	Attempt 1: Call all Primary/Correct numbers. Acknowledge past contact: "Hi [Name]—we spoke a few weeks ago about [Property Address]. Quick check-in: has your situation changed at all?"
Day 3	SMS	If no answer: "Hi [Name]—[Your Name] here. We talked last month about [Property Address]. Wanted to see if you'd reconsidered. No pressure."
Day 7	Call	Attempt 2: Follow-up call.
Day 30-45	Recycle	If still no interest, move to next 30-45 day cycle (for courthouse data) or 90-day cycle (for bulk data).

Bulk/AI Data (90 Day Cycle)

Delay	Action	Details
Day 1	Call	Attempt 1: "Hi [Name]—we spoke a few months ago about [Property Address]. Are you still considering selling?"
Day 3	SMS	If no answer: "Hi [Name]—[Your Name] with [Company]. We talked a while back. Has anything changed with [Property Address]?"
Day 7	Call	Attempt 2: Follow-up call.
Day 90	Recycle	Move to next quarterly cycle.

Part 5: Message Crafting Guidelines

Words to Avoid in SMS (Carrier Compliance)

To prevent your messages from being flagged as spam by carriers, avoid these trigger words: [2]

- cash
- offer
- sell your property
- house

Creative & Compliant SMS Templates

The Vague Follow-Up (to elicit curiosity): "Hey [First Name], this is [Your Name]. I was reaching out to see if you received my last text?" [2]

This simple message often gets a response because the seller is unsure what it's about.

The Drive-By Approach: "Hey, I just rode past [property address], is everything ok over there?"

This creates a sense of local presence and concern.

The Direct, but Compliant, Intro: "Hey [First Name], saw your property at [Property Address] – are you still thinking about selling? No pressure if not; I just wanted to check in."

Not Interested Rehash Messaging

Acknowledge Past Contact: Always reference your previous conversation to build continuity and trust.

Example: "Hi [Name], we spoke a few weeks ago about [Property Address]. Just wanted to check in—has your situation changed at all?"

Be Polite and Low-Pressure: The goal is to check in, not to pressure.

Example: "Hi [Name], [Your Name] here. We spoke last month. Wanted to see if you'd reconsidered. No pressure—just checking in."

Implementation & Best Practices

Best Practices for All Campaigns

1. Be Consistent, but Conversational: Maintain a regular cadence, but ensure the tone is natural and conversational, not robotic.

2. Build Trust by Educating: Focus on providing value and establishing yourself as an expert rather than just pushing for a sale.
3. Automate Smartly: Use tools to automate the process, but don't forget the human element. Personalize where possible, and always have a system to stop the automation once a lead replies.
4. Track Performance: Monitor open rates, click-through rates, and response rates to understand what's working and what's not. Use this data to refine your campaigns over time. [7]
5. Monitor the Critical Metric: Check daily how many leads are not on a drip and have no pending tasks. This number must be zero.

Common Mistakes to Avoid

- Sending Too Many Messages Too Fast: This can overwhelm and annoy leads, leading to high opt-out rates. Also, we do not limit the amount of texts you can send so you still need to comply with your carrier's A2P 10DLC rules.
- Using Generic, Impersonal Templates: Lack of personalization makes your messages feel like spam.
- Forgetting to Remove Replied Leads: Continuing to send automated messages to a lead who has already replied is a sure way to damage the relationship.
- Relying on a Single Channel: A multi-channel approach is always more effective than putting all your eggs in one basket.
- Not Auditing Your Not Interested Data: Failing to customize your rehash timing based on your market's average "Not Interested to Sold" timeframe means you're leaving money on the table.
